Goals and Objectives: The goal of this course is to introduce new students to the university and its environment.

Required Text: Marshall University Academic Planner

Class Attendance: Mandatory. There are many interesting things to be learned, and some of them might even help you be more successful in your college career and your personal life.

Grading: Grades are assigned on a pass/fail basis. In order to receive a passing grade you must attend all classes and turn in all required writing assignments. Any absences must be in accordance with university policy to be considered excused.

Hand-in Papers: After each class presentation, you must prepare a paper discussing what the presentation was about. Each paper will be at least 200 words in length and prepared in good form using a word processor. While the express purpose of each paper is to provide evidence that you were awake and listening during the presentation, the paper should also reflect your ability to write well. Sloppy or incomprehensible papers will be returned for revision.

News-of-the-Day: It is easy to get so involved in college life that you lose track of things happening around you. Just to make sure we all have our eyes wide open, each session will begin with two students bringing us the news-of-the-day. One student will bring in three items related to campus activities, and one student will bring in three items relating to the off-campus world.

E-mail Policy: Any e-mail sent to you concerning this course will be sent to your Marshall e-mail account. These accounts do not hold a lot of mail, so it is your responsibility to keep it cleaned out. Any message you miss because of insufficient room in your mailbox is your problem and could have a negative affect on your grade.
